

Political Philosophy in a Global Context.
Chinese and German Perspectives

Essen, July 5, 2018

T01 S04 B34

10:00-10:20 Introduction: ANDREAS NIEDERBERGER (University of Duisburg-Essen)

10:20-11:00 Confucianism and Political Philosophy

GENYOU WU (Wuhan University) – Minben and Democracy: A Comparison of the Political Ideas between China and the West

11:00-13:00 Marxist Perspectives and Contributions to Contemporary Political Philosophy

ZHI LI (Wuhan University) – The Boundary of Practical Areas and its Expansion

XINWEI WU (Wuhan University) – On the Two Traditions of Marx's Practical Philosophy in the Twentieth Century

PHILIPP SCHINK (Goethe-University, Frankfurt/Main) – What's the point of freedom? Two strands in socialist thinking

Comment: THERESE HERRMANN (University of Duisburg-Essen)

14:15-15:45 Kant and its Legacy in Political Philosophy

DIANLAI LI (Wuhan University) – Kant and Contemporary Political Philosophy

OLIVER SENSEN (Tulane University/New Orleans) – The Justification of Kant's Political Philosophy as a Public Reason Account

Comment: JAN GEHRMANN (University of Duisburg-Essen)

16:00-18:00 Challenges for Contemporary Political Philosophy

THOMAS BESCH (Wuhan University) – On justification, idealization, and discursive purchase

RUBEN LANGER (University of Duisburg-Essen) – Collective Wrongdoings. The Case of Climate Change

Comment: RAPHAEL VAN RIEL (University of Duisburg-Essen)